Dear Whiskey lover,

On the following pages are but a few, which we'd love to have available all year round. Alas, global demand and constant changes to pricing and production options have an impact on availability.

In New Zealand for example where the consumption of the Japanese collection barely registers on a global scale it can prove to be difficult to maintain consistency in supply. Much effort goes into maintaining a reasonable level of choices, however, please bare with us as at times your first choice may not be available.

ISLAY

Often called the 'Whisky Island' due to only eight distilleries there. The island produces very distinct malts, generally heavily peated and smoky in flavour.

HIGHLANDS | LOWLANDS | SPEYSIDE

The 'Highlands' is the largest area of Scotlands distilleries. As such the variance in flavours and finish can vary greatly. With this in mind the whiskies can range from dry to sweet, some even having a touch of smoke and peat.

Technically Speyside lies within the Highland region. It is home to approximately half of Scotland's malt whisky distilleries. This small area of land produces mellow, sweet, and at times fruit aromatic whiskies.

Whiskies from the Lowlands tend to be soft and mild in character. They often display a malty and somewhat grassy characteristic with subtle and delicate aromas.

IRISH

Most Irish pot still whiskey is distilled three times, while most (but not all) Scotch whisky, is distilled twice. Peat is rarely used in the malting process, so often Irish whiskey can have a smoother finish as opposed to the smoky, earthy overtones common to some Scotches.

JAPANESE

Broadly speaking Japanese whisky is much more similar to the Scottish style than any other. Production dates back to 1870 in Japan. Although it was all to create whisky for the local market, today Japanese single malts are widely respected, often beating some of Scotland's best in blind tastings.

BOURBON | RYE

Bourbon whiskey is a type of American whiskey: a barrel-aged distilled spirit made primarily from corn.

Rye whiskey is either American whiskey, which must be made of at least 51% rye, or Canadian whiskey, which due to history must be called rye whiskey, and which may or may not contain any rye!
